How to continue to obtain tax relief on dividends from Finnish securities

We are writing to you because you hold Finnish shares and we have previously assisted you in obtaining tax relief on the dividends in accordance with the double taxation treaty. As a result of new tax legislation in Finland, our ability to continue to provide our service of obtaining tax relief on dividends on Finnish shares is affected. Therefore, if you would like us to continue to provide our tax relief service, we kindly ask you to fill out, sign and return to us the enclosed Investor Self-Declaration.

This will enable us to help you obtain either tax relief at source or a quick refund service for future dividends, depending on where your securities are held in the local central securities depositories.

What happens if you do not complete the form?

If we do not receive the correctly completed and signed form from you, we cannot provide you with the service and we must withhold the maximum Finnish tax rate of 35% in addition to your country's tax rate.

What you need to do

We kindly ask you to:

1. Complete, print and sign the Investor Self-Declaration.
2. Upload the Investor Self-Declaration to us at <https://danskebank.se/finskavardepapper-eng>. Alternatively, you can send it by letter to:

We will apply for tax relief for any dividends you will receive in the future, provided that we have received the Investor Self-Declaration from you following our processing of it.

Please note the following:

- By signing the form, you authorise Danske Bank A/S to make the necessary tax reporting to the Finnish tax authorities on your behalf.
- When processing the form, Danske Bank A/S may use any information we have collected from you, including information collected for the purpose of complying with anti-money laundering regulation. Learn more about how Danske Bank process your personal data at www.danskebank.se/gdpr.
- As an alternative, you can reclaim excess tax with the Finnish tax authorities in the tax year 2022 for dividends received in the tax year 2021. You can find more information and links to the relevant forms at www.vero.fi/en.

Renewal of form

The Investor Self-Declaration has to be renewed every five years. We will contact you in due time in this respect. Please note that in the case of changes that affects the tax reduction you are entitled to, for example change of tax residence, change of relevant tax legislations or opening of new custody account, you must contact us to renew the form.
